"Eldercare Mediation Advanced Training"

Be on the forefront of mediating the newest focus of dispute resolution: helping elders and their families work together to make effective decisions, including driving, staying in the home, financial and health concerns.

Both civil and family mediators will benefit by expanding your mediator skills, and by considering the ethical decisions you need to make as an eldercare mediator. Non-mediators who are in the field of aging are encouraged to attend to learn.

Experienced mediator coaches will be present during the role-plays to help mediators improve their skills and professionalism. During role-plays, the training participants will serve as mediators or as family members.

Trainer: Janet Mitchell, Attorney-Mediator since 1986 and Director of the Midwest Mediation Center in Fort Wayne. She has mediated over 1,000 disputes and focuses her mediation practice on interpersonal conflicts (e.g., eldercare, divorce, workplace, ADA, and special education disputes).
